In Ann Frank writing, she explored creative expression leading through a challenging circumstance during the Holocaust as she hid. She expressed her emotions, thoughts, fears, and isolation through his writing. Creative expression in his writing did not only revolve around her personal experiences but also provided an insight into resilience, atrocities, wars, and the spirits of humans. Also, readers worldwide have been impacted by fostering understanding and empathy.

Furthermore, Ann's family was affected by his writing by making them feel connected as they went through the difficult times as they hid. Acts of creative expression have been demonstrated to transcend circumstances in the diary, whereby it resonates with humans through space and time, making it a timeless testimony of the human experience.

Some of the questions about the relationship between culture and expression are;

1. In what way does Frank's cultural background influence perspectives and themes in the diary?
2. How is creative expression creating a path for individuals to challenge and explore their cultural norms and traditions?
3. With the use of cultural norms and values, how is it shaping Anne's diary receptions and interceptions worldwide?

Questions concerning my values and how they are shaped through other people's expressions.

1. How do the values of the creative work lead to the inspiration of personal growth and empathy?
2. State ways in which expression of people can encourage my personal life by reflecting on my values and identity.

3. To which extension of other people's creative work influences my beliefs and values?

To answer my questions, I will research Anne Frank's life based on her historical context and cultural background based on what is indicated in the diary. Then read the diary and analysed her scholarly biographies and historical texts. When answering a question about my values and how the expression of others is shaping them, I will use the experience I have encountered while watching films, arts, and music. Through it, I can see how these expressions influence my values and beliefs with time.
